This is fantastic Ron and we should all feel very proud...

The performance of the system is second to none but I think it will be more realistic stating that the system has had less than 72 hours downtime across all sites in the same period. As a percentage that is less than one percent which is factual, beyond refute and more strictly true.

Look forward to implementation my feelings regarding Heron and its PAS system have always been the same. It works, its reliable and the users love it.
